*“Stand Your Ground . . .
If They Mean to Have a War,
Let It Begin Here.”*

Capt. John Parker

1/ Capt. John Parker uttered those words as the colonial militia under his command prepared to meet the British troops at Lexington. Those words and the painting—Spirit of '76—exemplify the dedication and determination of the American patriots in their fight for independence. The colonies had organized to express their grievances in an effort to resolve the differences within the framework of the Empire. Several of the colonial legislatures had instructed their delegates to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia to oppose any move toward independence. The movement for independence was gaining strength and following the publication of Thomas Paine's Common Sense, which argued for colonial sovereignty, a resolution was adopted and a committee of five appointed to draft a declaration of independence.

2/ General Washington, who had been appointed commander-in-chief of American forces by the Second Continental Congress, was a brilliant military strategist. It was his decision to take his Continentals across the Delaware River on Christmas night which resulted in the first major colonial victory. That victory at Trenton over Hessian mercenaries gave the ragged army renewed vigor. Supported chiefly through the printing of Continental currency, the colonial army also went through the personal fortunes of many American patriots—among them Washington, Jefferson, Richard Henry Lee and John Adams. These fortunes were donated to the cause of liberty—a cause supported by about one-third of the American population which was near 2,000,000. Another one-third remained loyal to the English crown and the remainder were apathetic. Despite many defeats, the colonies managed to keep an army in the field as a symbol of American resistance, to guarantee a negotiated rather than dictated peace.

“... Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death!”

Patrick Henry

3/ Following the victory at Yorktown, Washington refused the offer of his troops to become king and returned to Philadelphia to aid with the establishment of a permanent government for the new republic—a loose alliance of sovereign states held together by the Articles of Confederation. An envoy composed of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and John Jay was sent to negotiate with the British. It was not until 1783 that the peace agreement, known as the Treaty of Paris, was signed, guaranteeing the sovereignty of the United States of America. The Articles of Confederation, despite many weaknesses, served to unify the states until 1787 when a special convention was held at Independence Hall in Philadelphia to revise them. The meeting was attended by fifty-five of the most-prominent men of the day. Twenty-nine of the delegates representing a majority of the states met on May 25 and decided to draft an entirely new constitution rather than amend the Articles of Confederation. The meeting then became known as the Constitutional Convention.

4/ The men who assembled for the Constitutional Convention were an illustrious group with nearly every delegate a person of prominence in his home state. A large majority favored a strong central government. After four months of debate, on September 17, 1787, the new constitution was completed. In a little more than four months, six states had ratified the new constitution. Despite the good beginning, the fight for ratification was bitter and it was not until September 13, 1788, that the necessary two-thirds majority of the states had approved the document and Congress could call for states to choose their electors and congressmen. Several of the states had ratified the constitution with the provision that it would be amended. Thus, as one of its first official acts under the new constitution, the Congress added the first ten amendments known as the Bill of Rights. Washington was unanimously elected President and a new nation was launched on a course of democracy.

WHAT'S NEW IN '75?-- P.D. PRUDEN VOCATIONAL TECHNICAL CENTER

Mr. William J. Saunders-Principal

Mr. Cecil E. Houck-Assistant Principal

The P. D. Pruden Vocational Technical Center opened its doors in September after a joint effort on the part of Suffolk, Isle of Wight and Franklin to provide specialized training for students aiming for vocational careers. This great opportunity was given to us by the late Mr. Peter DeWitt Pruden Sr., of Suffolk. Mr. Pruden donated the 20 acres of land upon which the 78,000 square-foot building is built.

Thirteen different vocational courses are offered at P. D. Pruden, and were selected on the basis of industrial demand and student interests. The equipment is new, modern and possesses the latest features so students can receive training in areas of the latest technological developments. There are 13 labs and 9 classrooms in the center. The courses designed to fill 1 or 2 years of study are: Brick-Laying, Air-Conditioning, Heating-Refrigeration, Auto Mechanics, Auto Body Repair, Electronics, Welding, Food Services, Health Occupations, Cosmetology, Clerical Accounting, Data Processing, and Horticulture.

P. D. Pruden has been a valuable contribution to the students of Windsor High School, as it has been to the other area schools.
